

Information for the media

Fullstopp invests in innovative Journal of Medical Insight

Berlin/Boston, June 8, 2016. The Berlin-based company fullstopp invests into the Journal of Medical Insight (JOMI). The online platform is a publication of high-quality surgical videos that works with top university hospitals around the world and was founded by Nikita Bernstein.

“I am thrilled by the potential of the Journal of Medical Insight, as it applies top notch approaches to improve the quality and efficiency of medical research“, says Dr. Sven Fund, Managing Director of fullstopp. “We are also convinced by the innovative way of how employees and investors work together at JOMI.“

“We are excited that with fullstopp we found an experienced and innovative partner in Europe, who shares our values and will help us to enter international markets“, says Nikita Bernstein, founder and CEO of JOMI.

About fullstopp (fullstopp.com): fullstopp was founded by Dr. Sven Fund. The company holds interests in technology-based publishing services and consults with international publishers as well as academic libraries as well as fast-growing newcomers in scholarly publishing. Fullstopp is based in Berlin, Germany.

About Journal of Medical Insight (JOMI, jomi.com): JOMI is a platform that publishes surgical videos for medical professionals. It was founded in 2013 and is based in Boston, MA.